Todd Jones is founder of Fairfield County Central, Fairfield County's premiere online directory of local small businesses. Jones created Fairfield County Central in September 2008 to help local small business owners capture the power and reach of the internet for use in their marketing and advertising strategies.

Jones has over 20 years experience in the graphic design and digital media industries. Jones began his career in graphic design in 1990 when he opened i4Design, a small boutique design shop he owned for six years primarily servicing local businesses and non-profits.

Jones went on to hold positions at several Fairfield County-based businesses, including VSI Communications, Flagship Communications, and General Reinsurance Corporation.

In his spare time, Jones enjoys skiing, tennis, biking and spending time with his family. Jones resides in Fairfield, CT, with his wife and three children.
